The club is contemplating no fur-ther action at present. It has re-ported to the governor and the school department urging that both request the national survey bureau at Wash-ington, D. C. to make the survey here. But it is pointed out by club officers that the national bureau will consider no survey proposal until so requested by the governor and depart-ment.

"The governor, however, has not absolutely said he will be opposed to the project," the club officer continues. But she points out that until the governor requests a survey the club can do nothing.

Probably the next question to be considered by the board with regard to this matter will be the amount of money needed for the proposed survey. There has been some talk that a reparate bill will be drafted for the next legislature. But the general idea to the secons to be that if an appropriation is made it would have to be in the try, iset of the department of public

This rather startling information board of industrial schools will be was given U. S. Marshal Jerome Smid-held in Circuit Judge Whitney's cham-dy while he was in Hilo for the weekwas given U. S. Marshal Jerome Smidend, by a representative of the government in the Crescent City, who is in close touch with the erection of the federal building there. The government representative de clared in no uncertain terms to the marshal that, contrary to local belief, no preliminary plans for the Honoiulu building have yet been drawn, and he advised the marshal that, if Honolulu desires its building immediately, the chamber and the people must work to hurry the department along with the plans.

If the move is made immediately, the representative said, the construction doubtless will start within a short time. He pointed out that the plans must be approved by those government officers here who are to have offices and departments in the new building, and also by the people. He cited the work done by the Hilo Board of Trade toward a speedy construction of the Crescent City federal presented and newly elected officers building, explaining that it probably was largely due to the work of the board that building was begun quickly as it was.

It is expected that Federal Judge Clemens will have heard and determined all private litigation now pending over the Irwin site before January 10, the day on which his resignation takes
